

definite things.

Well, you can see the effect it had on my mind. I didn't believe any of the things they taught, but I had never heard much strong support in the things I had believed strongly to be true when I entered, but most of the college beliefs or when I entered.

Well, that experience at Occidental I came out wishing to stand for the Word of God, wishing to present the word of God as true and try to help others who, like myself, found themselves modern beliefs, and facing what seemed to be the overwhelming tide of present-day teaching contrary to the Word of God. I wanted to help them in that, but I felt that I was cold and on the edge of becoming indifferent. And so I went to the Bible Institute of Los Angeles after I left there. And I went down there to get warmed up again, and I was very thankful that I did. It was the last year that Dr. R. A. Torrey was teaching, and I had the influence of that great man of God. I wouldn't take anything for that year at the Bible Institute of Los Angeles. ~~in fact~~ When I came out of there, I didn't differ in a single belief that I had had when I entered, but I had a warmth about it such as I had had a few years before; and I had a much stronger feeling of conviction than when I left college.

I remember after I had three-fourths of a year at Bible Institute one time I was out for the evening at a place where Dr. Kelley was also ~~present~~ guest. In talking with him I ~~suggested~~ said, "Dr. Kelley, I'd like to come back to the Bible Institute next year and finish the course, but," I said, some of my friends are trying to persuade me to go to Princeton Seminary next year. instead. I am uncertain what to do." I didn't know then that Dr. Torrey himself was going to read the Bible about ten minutes later; I don't know if he knew it then or not. But Dr. Torrey turned to me and he said, "I'd love to have you get another year of this course you're getting at Bible Institute," but he said, "whatever
