

real pleasure to see these men and I had barely met Arthur Willits, but the other two I really knew quite well. This was the first time in more than 20 years that Dr. Allis had been in Germany. ~~Atxxxxxxxxxxx~~ Previously he had ~~xxx~~ studied there for a long time-- I believe three years--and had had received the ~~xx~~ doctor's degree there. Then mentioned that Dr. Macartney and ~~xx~~ Arthur Willits were going on to other cities in Germany and other countries and suggested that I take the trip with them. Up to this point Dr Neither of them knew any German, and Dr. Allis knew German excellently and was translated for them. I had had only about two weeks in Germany now, and Dr. Allis said that My German was not wunderbar but wunderlich. I did not yet know that wunderbar meant "wonderful" and wunderlich meant "ridiculous." Dr. Allis did not ~~mean~~ mean intend ~~this~~ this in any sarcastic or really critical sense, but I had had very little time in ~~Germany~~ Germany yet and what German I knew was still extremely slight. Theoretically I ~~xx~~ went as interpreter for them (where did you go?) but for Macartney and Willits. Actually the little German I knew was tremendously helpful to them as we traveled together. Dr. Allis was not going to make the trip with them and I asked why this was, and he remarked he was leaving in five days to go back to the United States. He had been working very hard, was very tired, and he was then editor of the Princeton Theological Review and he went over all articles with ~~xx~~ extreme care and read the proof with extreme care. Dr. Macartney and he used often to go and have their vacations together, and Dr. Macartney said, "He lives with proofs." He was quite tired. I said to him, "Oh," I said, "Are you staying only five days? in Germany after so long a time of not having been here?" and he said, "Yes/," ~~well~~ "Well," I said, "I guess you like the ocean trip." ~~W~~ "No," he said, "I don't particularly like the ocean trip." I could not understand his staying so brief a time on the first in more than twenty years. I mentioned this to Dr. Macartney and he ~~xx~~ said, "Oh, Dr. Allis wanted to travel on the boat ship with someone." "Oh, " I said, "Do you mean they are staying only five years?" (nc?) ~~xx~~ "No," he said, "the person has been here a while and is going back at that time and he ~~xxx~~ wants to travel back with them. (plural?). It was only later that I learned that the person was Miss Robinson who had been his secretary at Princeton. She had done work
