I had a most interesting experience a few days ago and as it is connected with the prophets I thought you would be interested in it. I was up in San Francisco and there I spoke to a group of students who were, I thought, as fine a group of Christian students as I have ever met in my life anywhere. In fact, I was quite surprised there. I talked with the president of the group before I went up and asked his suggestion as to the subject I would speak on. I was to speak Thursday noon and Thursday night and Friday night and he told me that Thursday noon he would appreciate it if I would speak for forty-five minutes on the content of Isaiah 40 to 55. Now that's a very involved and complex subject. We took about two or three weeks on it along in March in this course, and I was quite surprised thinking of college students taking that and particularly as this was just two days before the examinations would start, and I thought their minds would be on other subjects and they wouldn't feel like anything quite as heavy as that. The young man who met me at the train and drove me over from San Francisco to Berkley discussed the general meetings with me and I mentioned the subject to him and wondered what he thought about it. "Well," he said, "John is an eager beaver," so I thought his judgment was that it was a little heavy but John was quite sure that it would be all right. He said, Well they could take it. Well, I felt still worse when I found that they would be eating lunch while I was talking and so I didn't know about a subject as complicated and heavy and involved as that one, but I did it anyway. I started in and I talked for forty-five minutes to about sixty students there, as I say, with examinations just around the corner. Well, I talked on that subject, which was, I imagined, rather heavy. Well then the leader announced that that night he had asked me to speak to a little seminar. He said there would probably be eight or ten there. One of them told me later, the next day, he thought about five would be out. He said that they would, they had asked me to discuss something in the minor prophets at that time and I thought after the heavy material in Isaiah they would figure they had had enough of that sort of material for this year, at least, and so that night
