

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE.

I have consulted a wide variety of sources, including many commentaries, and various articles on special phases of the subject. Of course I have used the standard tools of language work. When I have referred to a man simply by name, I have generally referred to his commentary on Romans. To try to give a complete bibliography of the subject would be a work of supererogation, as Sanday, (in I.C.C) and Meyer (in his commentary) have already covered the field.