

beginning ~~xxxxxxx~~ of the 16th century the most ^{forward} ~~horrid~~ looking nations in Europe were ~~Spain and Italy~~ Spain and Italy. And in those countries economic life was going forward. And all the arts were ~~xxx~~ flourishing. And then the Reformation came. And as a result of the ~~Reformation~~ Reformation, freedom was increased in the northern countries of Europe and in the southern countries of Europe the counter-Reformation settled ~~the~~ a power ~~of~~ of control over them to keep people from thinking for fear they would think the way Luther was thinking. And the result of this is that ^{Macaulay} ~~McCaulay~~ says that 150 years ago, 200 Or 300 years after the Reformation, he said, though that was the ~~xxx~~ condition at the ^{time} ~~time~~ of the Reformation it is now completely reversed. And Italy and Spain, from being the forward nations, became the backward nations. Not that they ~~x~~ slipped back so much, perhaps, as that the Protestant countries went forward, and the way they went forward economically and ~~politically~~ ~~politically~~ was that ~~individuals~~ individuals had the freedom to utilize the qualities of leadership and the ~~qualities~~ qualities of organization that they had in them.

Today, in America, we have an automobile industry which cannot be equalled anywhere in ~~the~~ world. And the reason we have it is because a few people were able to work in a garret on how to make machines and how to handle these problems and then to borrow a few cents from their ~~x~~ friends and risk their own economic life in order to get a little company under way. And then they went about persuading people to buy their machines and there ~~was~~ was free competition, and free enterprise, and there was developed an industry which has brought transportation to the whole world. One of the great railroad tycoons said, when the automobiles began, the whole country will be bankrupt, as a result of the automobile industry. Instead of being bankrupted, there is wealth such as we have ~~never had before~~ never had ~~before~~ before.

People speak about the United States ~~x~~ having become the ~~greatest~~ ^{is} strongest ~~nation~~ nation in the world since the war, and that ~~is~~ true.
