for electors and these were only figureheads and had nothing to do with who was elected president.

It is a natural development, a process which lost its validity altogether but which has been continued as an empty form for 150 years. That is true of all human institutions. They develop this form, that form, the other form. Naturally in religion there are many elemtns which are purely matters of human administration which go through a natural human development and process. But is the whole Bible such a development? Did the teachings of the Bible come into existence that way? Did Israel's religion come into existence that way? Or was it revealed by God? It makes a tre endous difference. Is it God's reve tion or is the a result of human development?

If you don't believe in this sort of a God and this sort of a revelation then it must be a human development. And how could such a human development occur and give us these wonderful results which we have in the Bible? The G-W theory gives an explanation of how it may have occurred, and satisfies many that it is a purely human development and not a divine revelation at all.
