

is a very real element of truth in what he brought out. It was an incomplete element, but there was a real element. He preached on the text speaking the truth in love. And he spoke about the fact that people will run around and argue and fight over whether the sun goes around the earth ~~and the~~ or the earth around the sun, and of the relationship of the moon to the earth, and he says while they are fighting and quarreling about this, the sun and the moon and the stars just go right on in their courses, and pay absolutely no attention to what they say. And his point seemed to be speak the truth in love, and don't worry about the truth, it's the same regardless of what you say about it or not. Be sure you have a loving spirit. ~~And~~ And I thought that was an utterly false.....9....., but I do think there is a big element of truth in what ~~he~~ he said that the forces ~~of~~ of God's universe go on just the same, whether we think correctly about them or not, and God is just as infinite and just as ^{sovereign(?)} positive (?), whether we recognize his sovereignty or not. I do not think that the mere acquisition of ~~the~~ truth, or the mere learning of facts, the mere better understanding of how things are is in itself along something that is honoring and glorifying to God. It must have a purpose ~~in~~ it must be related to a goal. Jesus said to Peter, Do you love me? And as soon as Peter said, You know that I love you, Jesus said, Feed my sheep, and he said it three times over to impress on Peter's mind that if you love the Lord and desire to serve Him, you cannot separate that from your relationship to His people. If you love Him, it is His ~~desire~~ desire that you should long to feed his sheep, to get His message to His people, to reach those who are His sheep, who do not even know Him, to bring to them the knowledge of how they can be saved, to show them how they can be turned from darkness to light. A person may come to this seminary, he may go through this seminary, taking all the classes, and doing good work, and getting top marks, and graduating, ~~but~~ but having no interest in going out, no ~~desire~~ desire to take part in teaching in a S.S. class, or trying to do practical work outside while ~~he~~ he is in seminary, and he may graduate ~~with~~ with high marks, but ~~I~~ I would question whether ~~his~~ his life is ever going to be worth anything in the Lord's service.
