.....and there there was a man who preached, and his sermons were as modernistic as anything you ever heard in your life, but his sermons had a dynamic to them, they had a punch to them, they had a ...l... to them that you couldn't help but being stirred up and moved along, and I was talking to my roommate who was a graduate of a Presbyterian ~~xxxx~~ College, where his mind had been filled with modernism, and he told me, I feel I must go into the ministry to do good. And I said, Why? Well, he ~~was~~ said, When I was a boy we had a minister who faced us and said, If God calls you to the ministry, don't you dare refuse. And he said, That made such an impression on my, I can't get away from it. Now, he said, I know that that was an old conservative minister. I know it is just psychological. But it has got such a grip on me I can't get away from it. And so I am going ~~xxx~~ into the ministry. Well, he went to ~~xxx~~ this college where he gave up his belief in just about any Christian doctrine, but he wanted to do good, he wanted to help people, and he was ripe for being given this modernist ideal to push toward the semi-communist modern dictatorship that its leadership is now working so hard to get. He hadn't gone that far at that time. But that was the attitude of this fellow. And he said to me, You say that conservative Christianity has got a dynamic to it, that modernism doesn't have. He said, Look at this preacher here. He said, Just look at /him and see what he does. He says, There is a dynamic...2 $\frac{1}{4}$ Well, I would agree with him.2 $\frac{1}{2}$ Well, he taught there. This was a college conference, and Mr.2 $\frac{1}{2}$... I think his name was, had talked about the importance of going into the ministry.....2 $\frac{1}{2}$ And I asked him. I said, I would like to hear a little more about this, about the importance of going into the ministry. I said, What do you think it really accomplishes, anyway? Oh, he said,
