Dear Mr. Maguire:

Thank you for your letter of July 11th. I am glad that you like my article on Bible Prophecy.

I am glad to concur in the suggestion that you have made about the small change in the third paragraph on page three so as to make it read "an even more brutal aggressor" instead of "an equally brutal aggressor".

As a matter of fact, the wording that you suggest is exactly what I had in my first draft. As I went over it however I began to wonder about it. I doubt if it would be possible for anyone to be a more brutal aggressor than either Stalin or Krushchev. Yet to prove that Hitler was actually less brutal might be difficult. Consequently I changed the wording to the form which was in the draft that you received.

However, since Hitler is no longer a menace, and the area that was actually reached by his activity was probably less extensive than that affected by the wicked activities of Stalin and Krushchev, and since Krushchev represents a ghastly continuing menace to the world, there is probably no harm in using the stronger terminology.

I always aim to make my statements such that I can prove every detail if called upon to do so.

I enclose the two pamphlets that I mentioned to you and hope that you will find them interesting. In each of them I have presented certain vital aspects that I have not come across anywhere else.

Some time I hope you may find it possible to visit Faith Seminary. The old Widener estate gives a physical background hardly equalled by any other theological seminary in the world. We are endeavoring to train men to stand for true Biblical principles right down the line.

Thank you for having given me this opportunity to cooperate in your fine work.

Sincerely yours,

Dr. Allan A. MacRae
President
