

13)) pointing out evil, of pointing out wrong -- but there's not a writer in the Bible that didn't do it. Truth must be negative as well as positive. You show what is right, and you point out the error of what is wrong. And that's part of the meaning of being a Bible Presbyterian minister, not just a Presbyterian minister. "slight -----, but speaking the truth in love" -- "speaking the truth", not keeping quiet for fear you'll hurt somebody's feelings, but speaking God's truth, giving them what they need, but giving it in love, "that they may grow up into Him/which is -----."

Let us pray.            ordaining one who will be interested in all of God's people
