

--so tiny you couldn't see it , as that drop of wind would come down and as ~~if~~ it fell two inches this side or down that side of the roof , this would eventually take ~~it~~ it into the Danube and it would go way across Europe until it would come out over there by ~~Tur~~ Turkey and the whole future course of centuries to come of that little drop of rain would be ~~determ~~ determined by a change of one or two inches at this particular point . And it is that way with our lives . ~~They are - The bulk of decisions are not so very important when~~ ... affect our destiny for years ahead and we cannot tell often just where those are , and so God promised that He will guide us with His eye and can properly be taken as meaning that He will see to it that at these vital turning points we will go in the right direction. Not that He that at each particular point in His life . Now, here's a man and he says, I think that the Lord wants me to be a foreign missionary but I don't know whether I should go to Brazil or whether I should go to India. He studies the situation of his abilities and he can see no reason why he would do particularly better in the work of one or the other . He studies the situation in both areas and he finds a tremendous need of the gospel there. It may be absolutely unimportant which one he goes to . He does a good work here. It may be absolutely unimportant whether he goes to Brazil or whether he goes to India and yet there may be reasons in developments in the next few years in one of those two regions why a situation may come in which his particular ability may exactly fit a need and determine the future of that area in a way that no one else can do , and it may be the most important thing in his whole life , ~~this~~ <sup>which</sup> decision that he makes . God has promised that He will lead us , that He will guide us with His eye . And we have to look to Him not merely to know which decision to make but to know what decisions are ~~de~~ <sup>the</sup> important ~~decisio~~ decisions in our lives .