

I we have discussed all kind of things and I have always found him reliable and someone comes to me and says, "I wouldn't associate with that man if I were you. That man is a very low crook and would rob you if he got a chance." I would tell him that I had known this man for years and tell ^{him} ~~them~~ that ~~they were~~ ^{ad} entirely wrong--he might be right and prove it to me with his evidence but he certainly would have to bring a lot of it. I would not agree immediately with him when it was so contrary to that which I had somuch knowledge and now if you know Jesus Christ as your personal Saviour--if you know that Christ has done things for you such as no man ever could do if you see what Jesus has done in human life and how He and He alone has made human life worthwhile. And so when one comes to you with proof that Christ is an imposter, ^{on a fraud} you are going to require a thoroughly and abundant investigation before you are going to accept it and reject ~~your original belief in God~~ and throw overboard everything that you previously believed about Him. Neither should we bury our head in the sand and say this is what we believe --I think that is absurd to have that idea. What I say is--If you have evidence on one side, you are not going to completely accept what seems to be evidence on the other without fully and enquiring carefully in ^{just} what the two sides are. And where we don't have the ^{answer} ~~evidence~~ we can reserve judgment for a while until we get what the true facts are--until you can really look into it thoroughly.

But much of it you just couldn't look into it thoroughly because we simply have no evidence--that is all. The critics would say that Solomon amounted to nothing--just a petty kinglet over a semi-barbarous people and there is no other evidence and there is nothing to disprove it except the Word of God and the Word of God says it and I am going to accept what the Word of God says and have utmost confidence in it until ~~the~~ the time that God might choose to bring in new evidence which will show that what He has said is true.And He brought them in a way..... It has been said that the tomb of Solomon's favorite wife had been discovered and that in it there were such wealth and such jewelry that had not even been found in the tomb of Tutmose--but later they found out that there was nothing to it --we might expect something like this, but we find that God brought light on this of entirely a different nature.Back in 1916 some excavators from Germany went over to Palestine and started to excavate around Megiddo--the place of Armageddon spoken about in Rev. 6 to 10 and it is found to be a most strageic location .
