

Explain the monothelite group. For 800 years the pop~~as~~ were caliming something about Jesus which was not right and they later changed and yet they claim that the popes have been infallible right down the line. No, we can't fit this doctrine of Christ being man and God together at the same time, but by faith we accept what the Bible teaches.

Now it is not difficult to believe that the Bible is a human as well as a divine book. As it came from the original writers it was errorless. It used human vocabulary--human beings right down the line and yet at the same time we see God's hand on every page. Note the difference in personalities as portrayed in Scripture. We should study book by book instead of skipping around like so many do. Describe Matthew and to whom he wrote. In Matthew we have written down what Matthew thought--speaks from the view-point of the Jews and shows that this is the One for whom the Jews looked. He picks out fulfillments to prove that this is truly the Messiah.

Mark is entirely different. Mark, who is impetuous sees a different feature of the Christ from what Matthew sees and this written with the Romans especially in mind. (Record # 17) God was prepared to show a different people who had a far different background so the Lord used Mark to write especially to them. Mark shows Christ as the Servant getting things done and thus shows the Romans that here was the answer to their problems. It was the same Christ that Matthew had presented but from a different viewpoint.

Then we have Luke which is quite different again. Perhaps he was the only Gentile that had a part in writing part of the New Testament. He aimed his writing especially towards the Greek mind. Luke shows us the most serious side of Christ-- Luke arranges the material a little different from Matthew and Mark though tells the same story. Renan, the great French sceptic calimed that Luke was one of the most beautiful books ever written.

Then we turn to John. This is a unique combination of combining the human and the divine. John was a business man. He was a man that appealed especially to Jesus and was very close especially to Christ. As a whole the average people weren't ready
