And so organization -- without organization you are all going at cross purposes. hours It's like our hourse for starting classes. If you say you are going to start at a certain hour. and some get there then, and some get there 5 min. later, and some later get there 7 min. later some get there 10 min. later, important things have to be repeated and the time of those who were there on time is wasted. Now when I was a student in Germany they had an excellent system there. All classes were announced to beging at a certain hour, but it was understood by everyone that the d/ class starts 20 min. after the time announced. Everybody knew that. Nobody wasted time. If you come there at 10, 10:10, 10:15 that's up to you, you can come early if you want. But at 10:20 the Professor comes through the door and no one comes through the door after the professor gp/t/got there. One time I saw the great Egyptologist Prof. Zeite coming down the hall, and I opened the door and so as to hold it for student him and he was disgusted. He motioned, Boy, go in, go in. Every pody/m/ there must be in his seat before the professor comes in. That was the system in the German University.
