

~~Any~~ Any such motion can be moved as a substitute, and may be substituted on the majority action, and may be passed. After all of the motions which were passed the previous day have been considered and acted upon, or rejected, ~~or if~~ or if at least the opportunity has been given so to do, and some may have been voluntarily passed up, in case the mind of the whole body ~~has~~ had changed during the night upon them, then it will be possible for anyone to ~~make~~ move any motion which was approved the day before/ ~~by~~ by one-third of these present. However, at any time ~~during~~ during the plenary session, a motion to adjourn the plenary session can be made, and such a motion is undebatable. ~~The~~ The undebatability of motions to ~~an~~ adjourn is an unworkable thing, ordinarily, because people do not know what else there is that might come up. In this case, it will be entirely workable and right, since all motions that could come up are before them in mimeographed form and have already been studied by them. Thus, at the end of the action on the motions that received the full vote, or at any time before it, or after it, a motion can be made to adjourn, and if so, the ~~motions~~ motions that received approval of a third of the body automatically die, as far as that day's plenary session is concerned. ~~The~~ The plenary session shall last as long as the body cares to have it last. After ~~it~~ it finishes, ~~the~~ whatever is the order ~~of~~ of the day as of that time will be taken up, unless the body votes in the following exploratory session to substitute something that was listed as the order of the day at a time which the plenary session was ~~still~~ still in continuance. The order of ~~the~~ the day cannot interrupt the plenary session.

~~Thus~~ Thus

Thus, the subjects will be taken up in regular order in the exploratory sessions. Reports given and discussed, motions made, and so forth. <sup>A</sup>ny action, however, does not become final or enter the minutes until passed at a plenary session on the following day.