

of a large church in England where he was giving out God's Word most effectively. A third one went into the work of the organization he was developing. He called his organization the Inter-varsity Fellowship of Christian Unions -- trying to get organizations like the Cambridge Christian Union started all through England. He succeeded to quite an extent.

But I was interested going to see him, going through the headquarters in London, on Bedford Square to see this little sign on the front: The Inter-varsity Fellowship of Christian Unions. And going in there I didn't see Douglas Johnson's name anywhere. I stepped in and here was somebody with the Department of Publications, and here were other different departments. I stepped into one of them and asked where I could find Dr. Johnson. And they took me upstairs and down the ~~way~~ hall there was a room with no name on it whatever. There was Dr. Johnson, who as far as I know was the main force in the building of that organization, and was now the main force in keeping it going and making it a real force among the students in England, and he didn't even have his name on the door. But ~~he~~ he was in there working on his correspondence with these different schools, planning where he would speak and what he would do and I thought, What an example! The world may not know much ~~of~~ about Douglas Johnson, but I'm sure God knows a great deal about him because he did a great work for God in England. And then I talked with him about 4 yrs. ago on the phone, and he ~~is~~ now had retired, ~~and~~ and so he had gone into the Christian Medical Society to work. He told me, I'm working harder than I ever did. He said, They retired me from the Inter-varsity Fellowship, but now, he said, I'm working with the Christian Medical Society and ~~and~~ I don't have the secretarial help and the other things that we developed in the Inter-varsity, so he and his wife worked addressing circulars and doing work, working just as hard as he ever did. Little known, expect the people that were central in this organization knew how much he had done, and vital his work was for it. But he was a man whose eyes ~~was~~ were on the Lord and whose determination it was to make his life count for God. He stepped out for God. He saw a need among students and devoted himself to trying to work it. He did not ask whether he had the capabilities and be timid about it. He did what he could and God used his efforts and he accomplished a great deal. Then when the organization was built up he put other people in the positions where they could do jobs of which they were capable. He gave them the prominence. He stayed in the background. The world may not give him honor, but I'm sure that God has a great place
