

2)

2

ways of presenting ideas. Man looks on the outward appearance, but the outward appearance == this can easily lead to disaster.

In the 1930 == 1920's Germany was in a hopeless situationzszj1 shut in on all sides by hostile neighbors very little of natural resources within its boundary having to pay heavy reparations that took away their natural resources, no opportunity of expansion. The fut. appeared absolutely hopeless. One man said to me at that time, in the early '30"s Germany is like a death pot. People are struggling and there is no hope. ~~sed~~ Go to any border of the land and you will find hundreds of people hopelessly aiming to get out. The great numbers of the people within the land are unemployed and simply living on a dole with no future. In this situation an Austrian painter'szszsz stepped out with a message of hope. Adolph Hitler told the stricken people that if they would work together and combine behind him/~~with~~ their whole situation would be changed and they would eventually conquer the world. With ringing oratory that stirred people to their very depths, Hitler galvanized a despairing land and gathered == organized the people to work together for the objectives that he had in mind. Soon every one was working; everyone was looking forward to the future; everyone was praising the great leader. By the Treaty of Versailles Germany had been limited in many ways. One by one Hitler broke down these limitations. As long as the Germans cringed in fear the bands of the treaty of Versailles x held them tight. The minute they stood up and spoke strongly these ties dropped == those who were trying to hold them in subjection simply capitulated. The people said Here is a leader who is able to == who is showing us the way to deliverance. The nation poured out a tremendous effort behind him. Soon half of Europe lay at their feet, and the other half seemed about to fall. Only the channel saved England from being taken.

We all know what the result was. What seemed for a time to be the very means of deliverance for the people resulted eventually in their