

...Church History, and I myself will be giving the lectures in it. Church History is in my opinion a far less important

It doesn't matter what people have done in the past what matters is what the Bible says.

Because it is so easy for you to come up with a brand new wonderful idea that a church has tried and proven false, and to know of the history of both the successes and the failures of Christian people ^{through the ages} ~~to this day~~ is a valuable corrective to your going off half-cocked in this direction or in that. But no matter what the church has done at any particular time, that doesn't prove what the truth is, the truth is to be found in the Word of God. So we do not give you Church History the three years you are here. We give you Church History in two years, we believe that a three year course that (7 3/4) we take two years

We think that is necessary and quite

Well, study of the languages, study of exegesis, altogether, would come to say 30 hours while Church History accounts for maybe 18 (8 1/4)

If you find your beginning Hebrew, ;your beginning Greek, in order to keep them up it's pretty hard to keep up with your Church History

(9) So Church History has its proper place in our curriculum, but far less important than

Now, let's take another area, well, I briefly mention one other, we don't
