

wrong trail and had to retrace and the result was that it was quite a while after dark when I reached the other place, and during the last hour there it was a great thrill to me to look up into the sky and to see there Orion, one of the most beautiful and brightest of the constellations, and to look at it and to see how exactly it looked, like I had seen it in my home over here in America, so often, and it made me realize as far away as I was from home at the time, yet much that was familiar to me at home, was just exactly the same there. And God, who is here is-, who is in one part of the universe is equally in every part, "even there shall thy hand lead me and thy right hand hold me. If I say, Surely the darkness shall cover me; even the night shall be light about me. Yea, the darkness hideth not from thee; but the night shineth as the day: the darkness and the light are both alike to thee." And so through these twelve verses, we can read them as a praise of God for His wonderful presence, for His wonderful omniscience, for the knowledge that there is nothing we can do that He doesn't know about. there is nowhere we can go that He is not there, there is no mistake that we can make that He does not sympathize with, and follow us with His love and His interest. Oh, Or we can read them as some of these phrases ~~subb-~~ suggest, as the expression of a soul who is at first bothered by this, as everyone should be ~~x~~ bothered by it, who has not come to Christ as His personal Saviour. James says Thou believest in one God. Thou doest well, the demons also believe, and tremble. The more we know about God, about His greatness, about His majesty, the more we should ~~k~~ tremble unless we have accepted Jesus Christ as our personal saviour and are His children instead of His enemies. The wonderful knowledge of the greatness and goodness of God should strike ~~x~~ terror to our hearts if we are not living in accordance with His righteous law. And of course none of us live in accordance with His righteous
