

a wedding feast to which many people were invited and each was furnished with a fine garment to wear. As they were sitting at the table the master of the feast came to them and he found there one who did not have on the wedding garment. And he said unto him "Friend, how camest thou in hither not having a wedding garment?" And he was speechless.

(Matth. 22: 11 - 13)

"Then said the king to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and take him away, and cast him into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth. For many are called, but few are chosen."

All through the Bible we find this same idea. God calls all humanity to partake of the good things that He has in store for them. But many people do not bother to accept His invitation. They are too busy with the present things. They are more interested in having a good time, in making money, in enjoying life today to bother about the better things. And so God sends His invitation to the poor and lowly of the world. He sends His servants
