present His word there and in any possible way to get it across. Then I used to see others who felt they wanted to be a pastor in a church where they have set services at particular times and set duties to perform, and everything is more or less cut and dried, and that is what they thought was a ministry in this country.

God did not say, The field is everything outside the U.S. or outside of western Europe. He says the field is the world. The field includes western Europe, and the U.S.. It includes PA and Hatfield. The man who is going to be ^{used of God should be a} a missionary ~~should~~ just as much if he's a pastor in this country as if he was out in the jungles of S. America. It is the attitude of trying to make Christ known by every conceivable method, and trying "to be all things to all men that I may by all means win some." to the Lord. I do not think that simply because a person goes across the sea that will make him a more consecrated person than one who stays in this country. But I do think the field is the world, and wherever we go, and God wants us to be interested in the whole world, I think it is vital we have a missionary spirit and attitude.

The whole world lies in the evil one. Satan is the prince of this whole world today. But Jesus has left us here as His witnesses, to witness near and far. Not only to the ends of the earth, but also in Jerusalem, in Judea, in Samaria, in the near places as well as the far. Wherever you go-- far or near-- He wants you to be interested in all parts of His vineyard. He wants you wherever you are working physically to be having a part for Him in praying. It's a strange thing, hard for us to understand that God has planned all from the beginning. He knows exactly what's going to happen, and yet our prayers are a vital part. As the Westminster Confession says: He has foreordained all things that come to pass, but this does not remove the importance of second causes, but rather establishes them. Our prayers are one of the second causes,
