

but perhaps little more than that. The other is our knowledge of what has already been fulfilled, and what has not as yet, and so probably it must refer to a time which is yet to come.