

- Driver (1891) lists as E 4 verses (perhaps plus one) which contain the name J
- Driver (1913) lists as E 4 verses (perhaps plus one) which contain the name J.
- Addis lists as E 1 verse that contains the name J.
- C & H lists as E $7\frac{1}{2}$ verses that contain the name J.
- Ryle lists as E 3 verses that contain the name J. (also perhaps plus one) more
- Skinner lists as E 7 verses that contain the name J
 - 20.18 "universally recognized as a gloss" p. 320
 - 22.11 "11 is certainly from E; JHWH must therefore be a redactional accommodation to v. 15" p. 330
 - 22.14 "the words . . . JHWH . . . yield no sense appropriate to the context," p. 330 "In spite of JHWH in 11 & 14, this belongs to E" 233c
 - 22.15-16 "The secondary character of 15-18 is clear . . . from its combination of Elohistie conceptions with Yahwistic phraseology" p. 331
 - 28.21 "The word JHWH shows that it((v.21b)) does not belong to E; and in all probability the cl. is to be omitted as a gloss" p. 379
 - 31.49 LXX Elohim must be adopted if the v. is rightly ascribed to E, p. 402
- Brightman lists as E 6 verses that contain the name J.
- Pfeiffer lists as E 5 verses that contain the name J.
- Bewer lists as E 2 verses that contain the name J.
- Hooke lists as E $7\frac{1}{2}$ verses that contain the name J.
- Speiser lists as E 1 verse that contains the name J. However, he says "The 'Yahweh' of MT must be a copyist's error influenced by YHWH in the next line, 21.1" p. 150
- Harrelson lists as E 9 verses that contain the name J.
- B. W. Anderson lists as E 1 verse (and perhaps 2 others) which contain the name J
- Eissfeldt lists as E 6 verses (perhaps plus 4 more that are in italics or have portions in italics)
- Weiser lists as E 1 verse that contains the name J.
- Kuhl lists as E 4 verses that contain the name J.
- Von Rad lists as E 3 verses that contain the name J.
 - 15.6 p. 177
 - 20.18 p. 221
 - 21.33 p. 232
- Simpson lists as E $3\frac{1}{2}$ verses that contain the name J. next page