

If communist dominance is attained it will be very difficult to live a Christian life. In Russia one can hardly expect to be permitted to attend the university, or even to have a decent job, if he is known to be a Christian. There is constant anti-Christian propaganda, and it is illegal even to tell one's own children that God exists. Are our Christians ready to face this situation if it arises? I wish that every Christian would read Persecuted For Christ by Haralan Popov, which gives a very vivid picture of the clever, carefully planned, and utterly savage methods used by the communist when they took over Bulgaria, methods which are in use in all communist countries.

We need to see clearly the fruits of a rather consistent atheism and we need to fill our minds with Scripture. Under communist control Bibles are rare and precious. How many of us are prepared to face the persecutions that appear certain to come?

Someone has said there are more who really believe in communism in America than in Russia and that there are more who really believe in Christ in Russia than in America.
