the acts of the successor of St. Peter, and therefore he should be acquitted without investigation. That is a pretty extreme stand to take, but that is is stand, we do not know wherter the charges were r ght or unjustifed in this case, the next I want ot mention is the successor Eclis IV, how he came in, Mention Theodoric, his last act was to nominated Felix Iv, a very worth man to be bishop of Rome, Theodoric found it impossible to gite it to whoever had themarjority of votes because the strife was so great that it was pretty hard to tell, and so Theodorci picked out a good men kn the Roman chruch and said this mand is to be the bishop and he ordered that hereafter as before the pope could be elected by the clergy and poeple and but he muct be confirmed by the king beofere he can assume his office, with this understanding the clergy nithe city said we do not like the idea of the king who is an Arian anyway to appoint the bishop of rome but with such hard fighting here that it seems almost nexessary and since he promised that we will have the chance to elect the next one, we agree to have him, so relix seems to have been a very worith man became the bishop of Rome in 526, he was quite elderly, and in 530 when he was felt that his end was drewing near, he gathered the clergy together in "ome and he said th them I don't k want fighting after I dee as to who is going to be the next bishop, he said here is a decent of mind a mand named Boniface, a fine man and he said that I woant him to be the next pope, and so he said if anybody here who will not promise to support him iI will excommunicate that man immedistely and so he they promised and they promised to support him and alos to avoid excumming ion and so he said that Boniface II would be the next pope however as soon as he was dead the clergy assembley and out of 67 of them 60 voted for a different man, Discurius instead of oniface II, and so 60 wanted Dioscuris and Boniface had been declared to be pope by the previous one and he was able to support enough power to get himself installed as the pope and so you had better fighting between the sides, 60 voted against him but he got contorll and managed to seige some of the seading buildings and got himself established there and Dioscurius was a man from the east a man of very high quality man , Greek background and the Catholic enc. says that it was very
