

on the field and several years ago, they withdrew from the Christian Council at Kenya on three grounds. First of all, that the chairman of the CC of Kenya was an extreme modernist, a bishop of the church of England and in the second place the presence of the 7th day Adventist ~~and~~ and other bodies, but particularly the 7th Day Adventist mission. The third ground they said they were not sure of the ground, but that it had to do with the Roman Catholic situation. Well, there that situation has existed to the present day.

The African Inland Mission stayed out for a few years and then about two years ago, it went back in, although traditions were not changed, the 7th Day Adventist mission was still members of the CC of Kenya. The Bishop chairman of the church of England was gone, he was no longer chairman, but they have a Methodist modernist who is chairman of the executive committee, and I don't see that there is much difference between the Methodist modernist and the Church of England modernist, even though the commission was a little different, one was chairman of the whole council and one was chairman of the executive committee, conditions were practically the same, and yet the African inland mission went back in. Well, that was described by some of our friends as capitulation, they felt that certain advantages and certain business relations, that they felt that they would at least go back in. Dr.                      and Dr.                      a few years ago. Now that is the situation that we confronted when our Kenya mission got into difficulty during

. What was done? Well every missionary that had ever been in the native reserves if it wished the place ~~to~~ to grow it had to build ~~do~~ something, you couldn't live under the trees and under the bushes, so we had to build a station and everytime they wanted some land they had to get a grant of land, a lease of land from the government and                      for a lease of land. What does the government do? Well it sent to the CC of Kenya and they didn't know much about the Independent Board for Presby. missions, but would the Ind. Board work in cooperation with and under the direction of the CC of Kenya. Well, what would you answer if you had a request of that kind. Would you work in cooperation with and under the direction of the CC of Kenya? Well, of course,
