

if the bishop of Rome who was listed as a great leader of christendom in the western church was to say let the mayor of the palace who and his father and his grandfather had actually done the rule of France let them assume the title of king as well as of this is authority from this great bishop he might step forward and take the title without being cast out, and having a great revolution, so it was greatly to his influence to get the pope on his side, and the bishop of Rome was always willing to be helpful, to those whose influence could be a help and particularly, if there is a man where they can get a good recompense for it. And all the ~~bishop~~ bishop of Rome asked for this was that the king of France should protect him from the Lombards, and so the king of France who received his title from the bishop of Rome marched down with an army and attacked the Lombards and took away the good bit of territory from them and gave it over to the pope, and so the pope was not only the largest landholder in Italy, actually ruled temporally a large section of Italy, in subsequent years the friction ~~between~~ that Constantine yet, when he moved to Constantinople ~~which~~ had given Italy to the pope to rule, it is entirely fictitious, actually it was the king of the Franks who gave a portion of Italy to the pope to rule, ~~but~~ but it is the beginning of the temporal power of the papacy, well, we are not going into details in this ~~class~~ class and we do not have time and not sufficiently important for our present conditions, it is vital that we get the main principles in mind, and from this view point. (question). I believe it was Pepin. The vital thing if it is what Charlemagne did. The other is important in principle, it would have amounted to nothing if it were not for carrying out of the principle into the life and activity of Charlemagne. The mayors of the palace receive their ~~title~~ title, from the pope and became king and did away with the and the, that is the descendants of Clovis, and the pope received a certain amount of care of going into Italy to rule, but that would have been of little value, had not the thing been carried on ~~in~~ to its complete end, that was done by Charlemagne, by Charles, the king of the Franks. And this Charles, this king of the Franks
