that's not my gift. I'm not interested in evangelism." I think every Christian must be interested in evangelism but I think that He is saying that He gives some people a special gift whereby they can be particularly. And I have known people who have had a wonderful gift of Bible teaching and a great ability at reaching people at bringing people an understanding of the Word who have been so convinced that nothing else mattered except winning souls, that they spent all their time trying to do a job that they were And they had a little accomplishment but very little and they neglected the specialty that the Lord's given them. And on the other hand for a man to say, "My gift is evangelism and I'm not supposed to teach. I don't need to get into I think that's is wrong. His great gift may be reaching the lost but he must learn to (6.) Or else the gift itself help them to some extent in going on doesn't accomplish much. But the Lord gives special gifts to particular people. And of course for the exercising of the gift of a ruling elder, it is not necessary that one have any special support because the control of the government of the church can be exercised by a group of people who carry on ordinary activities of life to support themselves and who give enough of their attention to the church, to keeping it on a steady course and avoiding its going astray in one direction or the other. And they should also give time to helping in the teaching and every aspect of the work. But the teaching if it's properly going to be done, the evangelism if it's properly going to be done, and above all the pastoring if it is properly done, needs a man who can be ready day or night whenever there is need to go and seek out the lost sheep as one who has strayed and When one falls into sin and is having difficulty, to go and search him out and help him, to be on hand and give him comfort and help the people at the time when their thoughts My wife said recently being in this group - and someone else was telling me more recently about another similar group - they had a fine service Sunday evening and souls were touched and moved And all the leaders of the They can't just every Sunday night stay around till all hours. They can't do it - their regular work But there should be somebody who can. And that is the province of (9.). (Student question) No, I think that everyone has a responsibility but