11/19/62 con/t'd No. 2 that way between the two ideas which are fully vital to the full suggestion. And Consequently to say just ~~the words of~~ ^{where} thought jumps from one to the other is impossible, but those words ~~would~~ actually would remind us of _____ ^{has} that God is the one ~~who~~/brought the Israel, that God is the one who is bringing Cyrus, in order that his deed in bringing Israel may be effective and may be prosperous , that his ~~may~~ may be worked out. And the whole purpose of this is that the work of the servant of the Lord may be accomplished. And then the ^{the} servant ~~is~~ goes on speaking.   Oh, no, the servant,/servant of the Lord is the Messiah or Israel, ~~is not~~ Cyrus.   QUESTION.... No I wouldn't say that.

I would say that you have to take each page, see the exact words, to see what is in the page, but he says the servant, he rarely uses, rarely ever calls Cyrus the servant. There may be one case, but I am not quite sure where he is called his servant. If he is God's servant to do a particular task for which he came, but Israel is God's servant in order that the particular task may be accomplished. This task is to be accomplished by Israel.   What, it may be ^{it's}   ^{that} that/only a part of Israel, or maybe only one individual/is going to do it.

We have no remote possibility(?)   And in the next chapter we get it borought out clearly that it is not the whole of Israel, but up to this point but we had suggested that we haven't had brought it out yet, I think you can say that probably from (chapter)49 up it is pretty clear that it is an individual rather than the whole nation/ that is to do the work for which the whole nation Israel is responsible. Mr. Mackey.... I think that in verse 16, the servant is speaking.

...yes, ya, no, ...~~Mackey speaking~~. the coming, coming servant has not yet in chapter 40 been introduced as the deliverer of Israel. Practically every thing up to this point about the coming servant has been a coming servant who enlightens the Gentiles, who establishes the judgment throughout the earth.

^a
He has been presented as ~~the~~ figure who is to have a world-wide ~~task effecting~~ significance