

You see the background. When one drives Christ out of his heart, the devils come in and take over and they turn him in the direction that leads to wickedness and to evil

I went from there to Princeton. I got to Princeton Seminary just at the time when the darkness was reaching in and trying to take a hold of that seminary. I became a very good friend of some of the professors there and I knew the inside of a good many of the things that were developing. I remember one professor who stood up in the General Assembly (he was President of the School at the time) and he stood up in the Gen. Assembly and fought against Dr. Machen being confirmed as professor of apologetics. Oh, he fought against him. He seemed like the wild boar the way he fought against Machen. I was in the audience and I saw him in the hall. He must have known I was there. Three days later, I ran on to him. He said, How are you getting on? I said, Fine. He said, In the assembly, I think we came out pretty well considering. (They had gotten the appointment postponed for a year.) He said, I think we came out pretty well considering. Some of those folks wanted to throw Machen out altogether. on account of his liquor contracts. Some wanted to throw him out altogether. I think we came out pretty well." He tried to make me feel he'd been supporting Machen, when I'd been right there and seen him attacking him! This professor had a man come in and teach his class in Missions, and I remember him telling about the college he was president of in ~~India~~ India. He referred to the fact they had professors in their college who were Buddhists, who were Hindus, and even Mohammedans, I believe. One of the students asked him, Why do you have in a Christian College men who are not Christians? as teachers?" "Oh, he said, Some of our non-Christians are our best Christians." You see what a Christian was to him. A man with a nice
