

The roundness of the earth meant more to me after that experience than it ever had before. So in all these things we get certain set data, and we try to work out a theory or a <sup>model</sup> ~~model~~ that explains everything. But we never can be sure that the model we work out today and seems good today may not be proven completely wrong when somebody comes along with a better idea. I don't imagine many of you here ever heard of the Child's Restaurants. It makes me realize my age. Back in the 1920's in New York and in Philadelphia there were a great many of these Child's Restaurants. (It had nothing to do with children; it was simply the name of the proprietor) But in every one of these when you would get the menu, you would find that opposite the everything on the menu it would tell you how many calories there were in the dish, and it would indicate how much was carbohydrate, how much was protein, etc. The idea was that if you went to a Child's Restaurant you would eat what was good for you because you would get the right amount of protein, carbohydrates, fats, etc. and the right number of calories and you would get a proper diet. Now that has entirely disappeared because it was discovered that a person could be according to the information known at that time, <sup>what</sup> one could be an entirely full and complete diet and yet could starve to death because no one had ever heard of a vitamin. After that time they discovered the vitamins and the tremendous importance of vitamins. The other things are important too but vitamins are of supreme importance. So today we get enough vitamins. So who knows what will be discovered 50 yrs. from now if the Lord tarries? It may be just as much more important <sup>than</sup> as vitamins ~~than~~ as they are than our previous ~~old~~ ideas. People needed vitamins all through the centuries, but nobody had ever heard of them or dreamed of their existence. So what do we really know? We only know what the Bible truly teaches. Of course we have the problem, how are we going to interpret the Bible? Various views of the facts Unless one studies other languages very few people have a realization of the fact of the dis of words. I think it comes to focus very
