

to be sure you were right on this purpose than whether you truly know Jesus as your Saviour and your Lord. Personally I do not believe you can divide a human being into two parts or into three parts. I believe that all such statements refer to certain aspects of our being, certain aspects of our personality and that to some extent they overlap and dovetail.

But I believe that these four are intended to comprehend every aspect, every portion of our personality-- the love of God is to infuse every part of us. With all our heart. We usually think of the heart as our emotions. Well, it's rather silly to think that that ~~is~~ pump that pumps blood through us, why should that particularly represent emotion? But it has been characteristic for many centuries, perhaps thousands of years to speak of the heart as representing the emotions.

And all of us are torn, this direction and that. But God wants all our emotions, our our hearts to be centered on Him. And you notice it includes the word "mind" and how easy it is to fail to consecrate our minds to Him. How much more important it is to learn to understand the message that God has given in every one of the 66 books of the Bible that is important for you and for me.--- how much more important that is than to know what Luther thought, or exactly what Melancthon thought, or exactly what anyone of a 100 other fallible human beings have thought about particular points.

This Book here has got, I believe a tremendous amount of important, vital material for the lives and thought and activity of every one of us that few people have ever found. It is there. And we're busy arguing about particular points instead of seeking to delve deeper into it and to find more and more what is God's message, and what is his message for the days ahead.

I believe we have come to a day when it is particular important that we live for God, that we tell of our love for Jesus Christ because no one of us can tell what is ahead. It looks very likely that none of us will ever have to go through the torture and the misery of an atomic war. That appears very unlikely. Propagandists are now covering our nation with the admonition: Let's have a freeze on atomic weapons so that we will not have to go through an atomic war. We should not build any and let's have the Russians not build any.' I don't know ==I wish some of our politicians had thought of it 10 or 15 years ago when we let them go way ahead of us but we didn't think of it then.

But, it appears most likely that this will not == it will not be so long. It might come very soon when faced with the danger of atomic war there will simply be capitulation. When that happens our people will be taken over as the Russians have been. In Russia today, half the people are semi-starved. They do not have enough to eat. They do not have much of the luxuries of life, because ~~is~~ because everything possible is being taken and fed into establishing tremendous armament for world conquest and for establishing a system of civil defense whereby at
